January 16, 1991

Dear Jim,

This is to let you know that the editorial policy has changed. We are no longer going to need the services of a single editor. I feel the publication is too small and we would be better off with an editorial board putting forth the ideas and issues.

You are welcomed to stay on with us as a member of that working board or you may choose to be a contributing guest writer. Whatever, is best for you will be fine with me.

I sincerely feel we must broaden our writers scope so that we appeal to the general reader. We have become too hardcore scientific.

Enclosed is our check for $2,500, which will take care of your services until January 31, 1991. Also, the check for this month's Keyman Insurance payment.

We've done some good things together Jim. Hopefully, we will continue on a more equitable basis to build freethought together.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Lange
President
